FAST WEB REPORTING TOOL

To provide the public and policymakers with an easy and effective way to compare school district and campus academic achievement, expenditures and resource allocation, the Comptroller's office has developed a FAST website at www.FASTexas.org that allows visitors to run custom reports on school academic and spending information. Users can run reports, view extensive data sets and download the results.

The FAST web reporting tool allows users to review TEA ratings and statistics as well as the new FAST indicators. It will be updated annually, with all FAST data and results available free of charge. The website also includes a detailed description of the methodologies used in the FAST project.

The Comptroller's Financial Allocation Study for Texas (FAST) examines both academic progress and spending at Texas' school districts and campuses. The following table profiles each Texas school district, with an assigned FAST rating of one to five stars indicating its success in combining cost-effective spending with the achievement of measurable student academic progress. Five stars reflects the strongest relative progress combined with the lowest relative spending.
